Teargas Routs Pair In Hideout

Teen-Agers Held In Gun Burglary

Surrounded by a cordon of police, two tear-stained Circleville youths, age 14 and 15, surrendered in their hideout Wednesday night and reportedly admitted burglarizing a downtown auto parts store.

The boys are being held in the Pickaway County jail awaiting a hearing in juvenile court. They are accused of looting the Western Auto Store Monday night of $200 worth of firearms, ammunition, knives and watches.

An "inside" tip led Police Chief William F. McCrady and Probation Officer John Kerns to the Ralston-Purina warehouse at Washington street and the Norfolk and Western railroad, ending a two-day search for sus-

It is important that the wheat fertilizer be drilled at the same time as the seed is sown so that fertilizer and seed are placed together in the same drill row, emphasizes Evans.

Such placement appears to help the young wheat seedlings to a very rapid start; which, if the fertilizer is placed otherwise, does not occur.

Inventor Has Help For Umbrella, Too

WASHINGTON, Aug., 26-A South American inventor believes he has found the answer to automobile-parking and umbrella-carrying problems.

The U. S. patent office disclosed today that G. Solomon Padial, of Caracas, Venezuela, has been granted patents on a pocket-sized inflatable umbrella, and a device which permits parking of autos without back-scribes the umbrella as being inflated through a pump arrangement containing a piston rod which also functions as a handle.

The inventor claims the collapsed umbrella fits snugly in a woman's purse or the pocket of a man's suit.

The auto parking device consists of an arc-shaped platform on inclined rollers, a guided carriage and cable and drum arrangement. Padial describes the operation of this invention as "A CAR striking a control post continues forward until its rear wheels ride on the inclined rollers; the rear wheels skid sidewise, moving the automobile into parking position.

"The device is supported so that it is substantially flush with a garage floor, street, or other plane. . . in which a car must be parked in limited space."

Padial already has patented a machine which he claims compacts cigaret tobacco "to eliminate the annoyance of loose bits that finds their way into a smok-

Up to a warmish morning and finding practically everything shipshape did take off through the tar pits for the downtown area. Mighty nice will be that repayed street when work is completed, but right now it is being called a lot of names (All ladylike, of course) by the housewives who are finding tar tracks in all rooms. The job, it is said, will be completed in about two weeks.

Dropped in at Charlie Smith's to view some great pike brought back from Manitoulin by Loring Hoffman. One weighed 28 pounds when boated. And another tipped the scales at 32 pounds. That one might have set a 1948 national record if Loring had kept it and entered it in the contest. Also scads of smaller ones. First real fishing results from the Northland I have seen this season. Later did chat with Loring and learned that the strikes still were numerous and vicious on the day he left for home. Someone sent in a copy of the Link, Wilmington College's paper, containing a message to the students from Benjamin Fairless, president of U.S. Steel. Among other things he said: "I was reared as a youngster with the thought that, if I were to get anywhere, I must be willing to work hard and not expect my fellowmen to take care of me." Also from the anonymous sender a note reading: "How about teaching a little more of this in the home and public schools." There's either a very old fashioned person or a supreme optimist. Doesn't he or she know that in these modern times one is supposed to start at the top doing very little and work down slowly to doing

Chatted with John Maddux and learned about a champion pumpkin vine at his Seyfert avenue home. "Don't think I'll & get any pumpkins off it," he declared. "Vine grows so fast it wears out the pumpkins dragging them around." I'd heard it before, but I laughed anyway. He didn't buy a drink, so did look up Herschel Hill and for the second time in 13 years did beat him out of a cup of coffee. Still think he was not trying his best. Shortly after along came Mack Noggle the banker and he made an outright coffee buy, fixing me up well for the day.

At noontime did visit the GE plant and for the first time went inside. As big as all out-doors. Noted that landscaping is about to start and that the piles of glass for the window look sufficient to glaze practically all the windows in town. Work moves right along and almost before we know it the plant will be producing and employing a lot of local labor. And we can use that.

Up and up went the thermometer and by midafternoon the heat became such a burden that I did head for the country and a cool living room. Napped and read alternately until the dinner hour and in the cool of the evening did go for a ride through the countryside. A lot of money in the making on our farms, money that will be in circulation before the snow flies.

Someone sent in a copy of the Link, Wilmington College's paper, containing a message to the students from Benjamin Fairless, president of U.S. Steel. Among other things he said: "I was reared as a youngster with the thought that, if I were to get anywhere, I must be willing to work hard and not expect my fellowmen to take care of me." Also from the anonymous sender a note reading: "How about teaching a little more of this in the home and public schools." There's either a very old fashioned person or a supreme optimist. Doesn't he or she know that in these modern times one is supposed to start at the top doing very little and work down slowly to doing

He didn't buy a drink, so did look up Herschel Hill and for the second time in 13 years did neat him out of a cup of coffee. Still think he was not trying his best. Shortly after along came Mack Noggle the banker and he made an outright coffee buy, fixing me up well for the day.

> At noontime did visit the GE plant and for the first time went inside. As big as all out-doors. Noted that landscaping is about to start and that the piles of glass for the window look sufficient to glaze practically all the windows in town. Work moves right along and almost before we know it the plant will be producing and employing a lot of local labor. And we can use that.

Up and up went the thermometer and by midafternoon the heat became such a burden that I did head for the country and a cool living room. Napped and read alternately until the dinner hour and in the cool of the evening did go for a ride through the countryside. A lot of money in the making on our farms, money that will be in circulation before the snow flies.

Livestock Killed By Snakeroot

Destroying Plant Best Control Way

White snakeroot is probably responsible for more cases of poisoning in sheep and cattle than any other plant, Pickaway County veterinarians report.

It causes trembles, also called milk sickness. It is a round-stem woodland growth, about three feet high, having spearhead-shaped leaves, each with three prominent veins and with an under surface that is shiny in contrast to the dull upper surfaces.

It bears clusters of white flowers that make this appearance and sore throats but otherwise Bobby and Pamela, of Hollis, usually in September.

This plant contains a chemical trematol, that not only poisons livestock, but also causes fat al illness in people who consume milk from poisoned cows. Nancy Hanks. Abraham Lincoln's mother, is believed to have died

About three pounds of white snakeroot is enough to kill a sheep or geat

HORSES, mules, and cattle, may succumb on about 10 pounds. Because the poison lingers in the body, death can result from consuming small amounts of the plant over an extended period. Hogs seldom are poisoned by snakeroot, unless they feed on the roots.

Affected animals become listless, frequently develop severe tembles, lose weight, and die from exhaustion. Poisoned cows should be milked regularly, because milking is one of the few ways of removing the poison, but the milk should be discarded as it is unfit for human or animal consumption.

A veterinarian shoud be summoned to care for affected animals, since prompt treatment often makes the difference between life and death.

Likewise, persons ill from consuming milk of poisoned cows should place themselves under a physician's care immediately

The only sure way to prevent snakeroot poisoning is to rid woodland pastures of this plant. During September, when it is easy to recognize by its flowerroots and destroyed by burning.

Answer: Election year, of course!

In one form or another, the above gag is getting a lot of kicking around in Washington Gese days, and there's more implied truth than humor in sternation is something slightly its somewhat sinister mean-

The result is that the system is coming in for considerable ridicule, insofar as its effectiveness is concerned.

Currently, the nation's capital has just about the worst case of election-year job-jitters it has offered in a couple of decades.
The cause of such nervousness among government employes, of the various public opinion polls which continue to predict a Republican victory in November.

ALSO, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey | workers are citizens and voters has made it pretty clear that he just like other people.
